MESA POSTOFFICE
ASSURED; MAHONEY
BID IS ACCEPTED

MESA, July 30.—Mesa is to have a new postoffice. This was assured today when Dan Mahoney received a communication from the postoffice department at Washington, stating that his bid for the building had been accepted.

The bid called for a space 29x38 feet. The structure will be erected between Easton's bakery and the Alhambra hotel, on Macdonald street. The equipment will be modern in every respect with vaults and safety vaults.

The government will have a ten-year lease beginning January 1, 1919. The present postoffice has been entirely too small for the business transacted in Mesa and the change is another indication of Mesa's rapidly growing commercial expansion.

A call has been issued through the Federal Reserve Bank at San Francisco for all cities and towns to help tide over the war finances between the third and fourth Liberty loans by loaning to the government, on United States treasury certificates of indebtedness, all funds which can in any way be spared from city government. ## AMUSEMENTS

Strong Story of Old Arizona.
A story typical of Arizona in the days is depicted in "Fighting Back," a film featuring William Desmond, which comes to the Columbia theater for two days, starting today.

The scene of the play is on the southwestern border and deals with border life as it was in the yesteryear. Desmond, as the "Strange Weakling," was a health seeker on the border.

In his travels he meets "The Fury," with whom he falls deeply in love. "China-Mex," a halfbreed and proprietor of a notorious thirteenth emporium, also loves the same woman.

The inevitable happens and the two men lock horns in a fast combat that is one of the fastest and most furious ever portrayed on the screen. Even as a coyote, at bay, will turn, so did the "Weakling" face his opponent.

A strong cast supports Desmond in this production, including Claire McDowell as "The Fury," Curley Baldwin as "China-Mex," Pete Morrison as "Mournful Pete," William Ellingford as "James Newton," Thomas H. Guise as "Colonel Hapton," Thomas Edwards as "Tont" and Josie Sedgwick, a dance hall girl.

Both Desmond and Claire McDowell are given plenty of opportunity to display their talents in this drama. Added features include a two reel Keystone comedy, a Finley Nature film and "Sailor" Paul Williams and his special film, "Sea Wars and Sea Films."

Thrill Galore at the Hip
Seekers of thrills in pictures will find in "The Model's Confession" real satisfaction for this lovely model, who has borrowed her fine plumage and entered society, is thrown over a steep embankment with society's most notorious rascal. The bit of realism is said to be one of the greatest ever screened in a picture.

The thread of this story shows what a girl may do if she has the nerve, for this slip of a model should have had a father, but he denied her love. She saw her chance to gain his ear for the moment and she borrowed plumage and entered society as the supposed sweetheart of a club man of rather uncertain position, and the very man who should have been proud to call her father, tried to continue his career of crime by adding to his list of victims this very daughter of his flesh.

It is a startling plot and the makers have given beautiful Mary MacLaren a splendid company and produced the picture with infinite care.

It is augmented with a fine Pathe news reel of current happenings all over the world.

Tomorrow comes Monroe Salisbury in "The Eagle," a strong story of a man who tried by the holdup route to right a wrong done his mother by a big mining company.

Old Fashioned Minstrel Show Coming
A real old fashioned minstrel show, with plenty of good singing, dancing and other wholesome forms of entertainment, is coming to the Columbia theater Friday and Saturday of this week, with night performance on both days and a matinee exhibition Saturday afternoon. The name of the organization, Virginia Minstrel, is of significant of its wholesomeness.

This reliable organization of minstrelsy is said to be one of those clean, high class delineators of wholesome amusement, replete with melodious southern songs, old fashioned waltz clog dancing, soft shoe dancing and numerous vaudeville numbers, together with a grand finale of modern musical comedy.

The company is composed of 25 performers, carries its own band and orchestra and an extra car of scenery. The singers are the southern type, featuring a sextet and quartet.

The vaudeville numbers include hoop rollers, jugglers, tight wire walkers and other specialties, all artists in their respective lines.

chance. There will be a parade and band concert Friday noon. Seats go on sale Wednesday noon at the Columbia box office. Reservations will be held until one hour before the performance for which they are intended.

"The Lie" Is Lamara Offering
Every woman hopes some day to be the wife of the man she thinks is to come for her. When she has waited for that man until she is just stepping to the bride of the maidhood and discovers that her younger sister has listened to the honeyed words of a man who has led her away from the right path, and she gives up her own happiness to shield the girl sister, she becomes little less than a martyr.

This girl, played by Elsie Ferguson in Henry Arthur Jones' famous stage success, "The Lie," gave up every hope of happiness to save her sister. She did not hesitate, but went to the fate she chose without a complaint because she deemed the family name.

It is one of the most gripping and best told plays of the past decade and done to pictures with beautiful Elsie Ferguson in the part of the "girl" who gives up her all to save her sister, it is said to have surpassed in dramatic appeal anything this beautiful stage star has attempted for the screen. With the feature is to be seen Burton Holmes travelogue, "Today in Samoa," a peep at the picturesque country side of the tropical spot where indolence is bred in the bone. This program remains for three days, starting this morning at 11 o'clock at the Lamara.

FOOLISH WORDS ARE UNDOING OF GREEK

Theo. Economou, a Greek, suspected of being out of sympathy with the majority of his countrymen was arraigned before United States Commissioner Henke yesterday of a charge of violating the espionage law by giving voice to seditious utterances.

What he said would not have attracted so much attention a year ago. But it did not possess the merit of originality. All anarchists and many pacifists and all pro-Germans had said the same thing in precisely the same language. It was, "This is a rich man's war and a poor man's fight."

It is now up to Mr. Economou to prove it or to prove that he did not say it.

Economou, was arrested by Special Agent Bledsoe in Phoenix several days ago and placed in the city jail. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Henke yesterday afternoon and his bond fixed at $1,000 which he was unable to furnish.

PLENTY OF STEEL
AVAILABLE, SCHWAB

NEW YORK, July 29.—Demands of government and private war industries for steel have reached such huge proportions with repeated expansion of the nation's military program, that the allotments to "non-essential" manufacturers must be continually reduced.

J. L. Replogle, federal steel administrator, announced here today.

Mr. Replogle, after conferring with Chairman Schwab, director general of the emergency fleet corporation; Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States shipping board; J. A. Bonner, representing the American iron and steel institute, and heads of the country's leading steel firms, declared there was no cause for alarm over the steel situation as it affects shipbuilding, munitions and other activities vital to the war.

Development of the shipbuilding industry far beyond the most sanguine estimates of a year ago, Mr. Replogle continued, has created a demand for plate steel which has exceeded the capacity of all the plants equipped for this type of work. Steel for munitions and for other war supplies also has been required by the government in greater quantities than the manufacturers have been able to meet.

Obviously, the administrator said, steel has been available for industries not essential in the prosecution of the war, but the allowances to these concerns, he declared, will grow less and less as equipment is installed in the "more essential" industries.

Mr. Replogle announced that in conference at Washington tomorrow with representatives of the war industries board and the emergency fleet corporation, distribution will be made of the available supply of steel to the various shipyards and other war work plants, together with allotments to private industry.

Charles M. Schwab was enthusiastic over the future of American shipbuilding when he came out of the conference with the steel man. He said there was "no reason for unusual alarm" in regard to the supply of manufactured materials for steel ships.

"Steel in large quantities is available," said Mr. Schwab. "The only question is its distribution and that will be taken care of by Mr. Replogle and his conferees."

SAVE SUGAR

IN SERIOUS TROUBLE

The case of Grace Landis, arrested Sunday on a charge of vagrancy, was continued until 4 o'clock this afternoon by City Magistrate Frank Thomas in the city court yesterday. Grace Landis, shortly after being arrested, was released on a $150 cash bond.

It was Grace Landis over whom Red Kelly, notorious cattle rustler, killed himself at Miami several months ago, according to reports from Miami. Kelly was ordered out of Phoenix in an effort to get him away from Grace Landis, after repeated arrests for violating a certain rooming house ordinance.

Kelly, who shot and killed himself, left a note saying the Phoenix police had ruined his life by driving him away from Phoenix and Grace Landis. He lamented the fact that "Little Grace" had not written to him and said in his note that there was a large sum of money concealed in a certain place in a rooming house in Phoenix which he wanted Grace Landis to take possession of for herself. The money was never found and the police concluded Kelly was mentally unbalanced at the time he wrote the letter.

Grace Landis, since Kelly's death, has been a source of considerable concern to the police, according to Chief Brishois, and upon personal complaint to Chief Brishois by neighbors.

Grace Landis, who dresses for a girl 18 years old, is about 25 years of age, say the police.

Profits and Prices

Profits may be considered from two angles:

1st—Their effect on prices;
2nd—As a return to investors.

When profits are small as compared with sales, they have little effect on prices.

Swift & Company's profits are only a fraction of a cent per pound on all products sold, and if eliminated entirely would have practically no effect on prices.

Swift & Company paid 10 per cent dividends to over 20,000 stockholders out of its 1917 profits. It also had to build extensions and improvements out of profits; to finance large stocks of goods made necessary by unprecedented requirements of the United States and Allied Governments; and to provide protection against the day of declining markets.

Is it fair to call this profiteering?

The correct test
for gasoline

Until recently many purchasers considered the gravity test the only proper measure of gasoline value.

Then the National Bureau of Standards at Washington pointed out that this test tells nothing of the power value of gasoline.

It further showed that the real test of gasoline lies in its vaporizing and combustive qualities, which can only be measured by its boiling points.

Boiling points are vaporizing points. They determine the action of the gas developed from gasoline.

As combustion starts with the lowest boiling points and flashes on through the gas, the continuous, uniform chain of boiling points—from the low to the high—is necessary for instantaneous, full-powered combustion. Eliminate one link and the power chain is broken.

Only straight-distilled gasoline can have the continuous, uniform chain of boiling points. Mixtures always have "holes" in them.

Red Crown is a straight-distilled, all-refinery gasoline, having the full and continuous chain of boiling points necessary for steady, dependable power: Low boiling points for easy starting, medium boiling points for quick and smooth acceleration, and high boiling points for power and mileage. Look for the Red Crown sign before you fill.
